

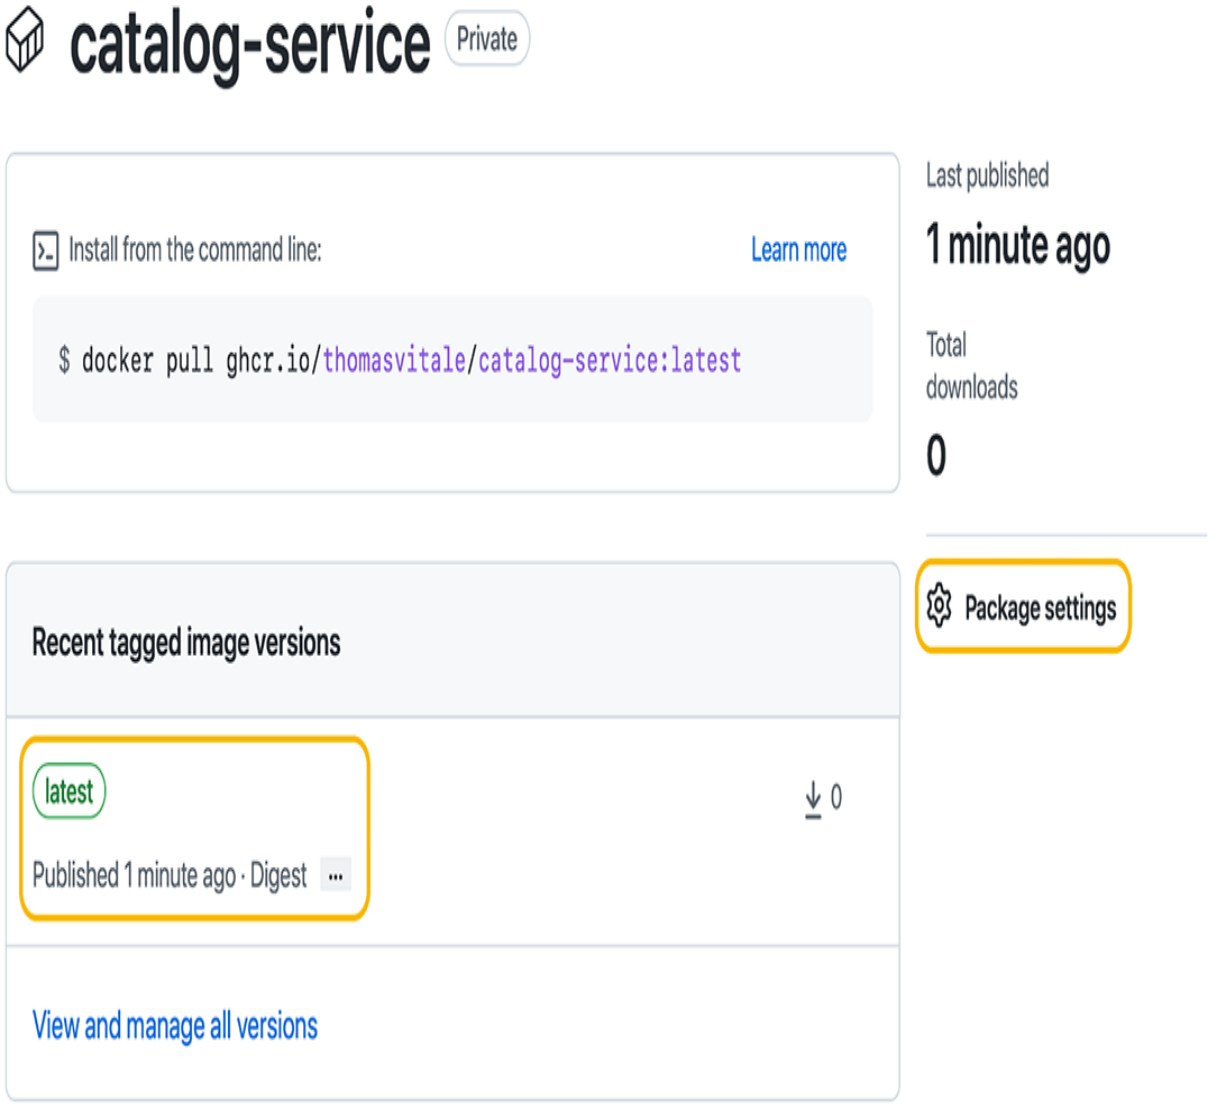

Figure 6.11 Images published to the GitHub Container Registry are organized as "packages."

However, the `catalog-service` package is not linked to your `catalog-service` source code repository yet. Later, I'll show you how to automate building and publishing your images with GitHub Actions, which makes it possible to publish images in the context of the source code repository from which they are built.