

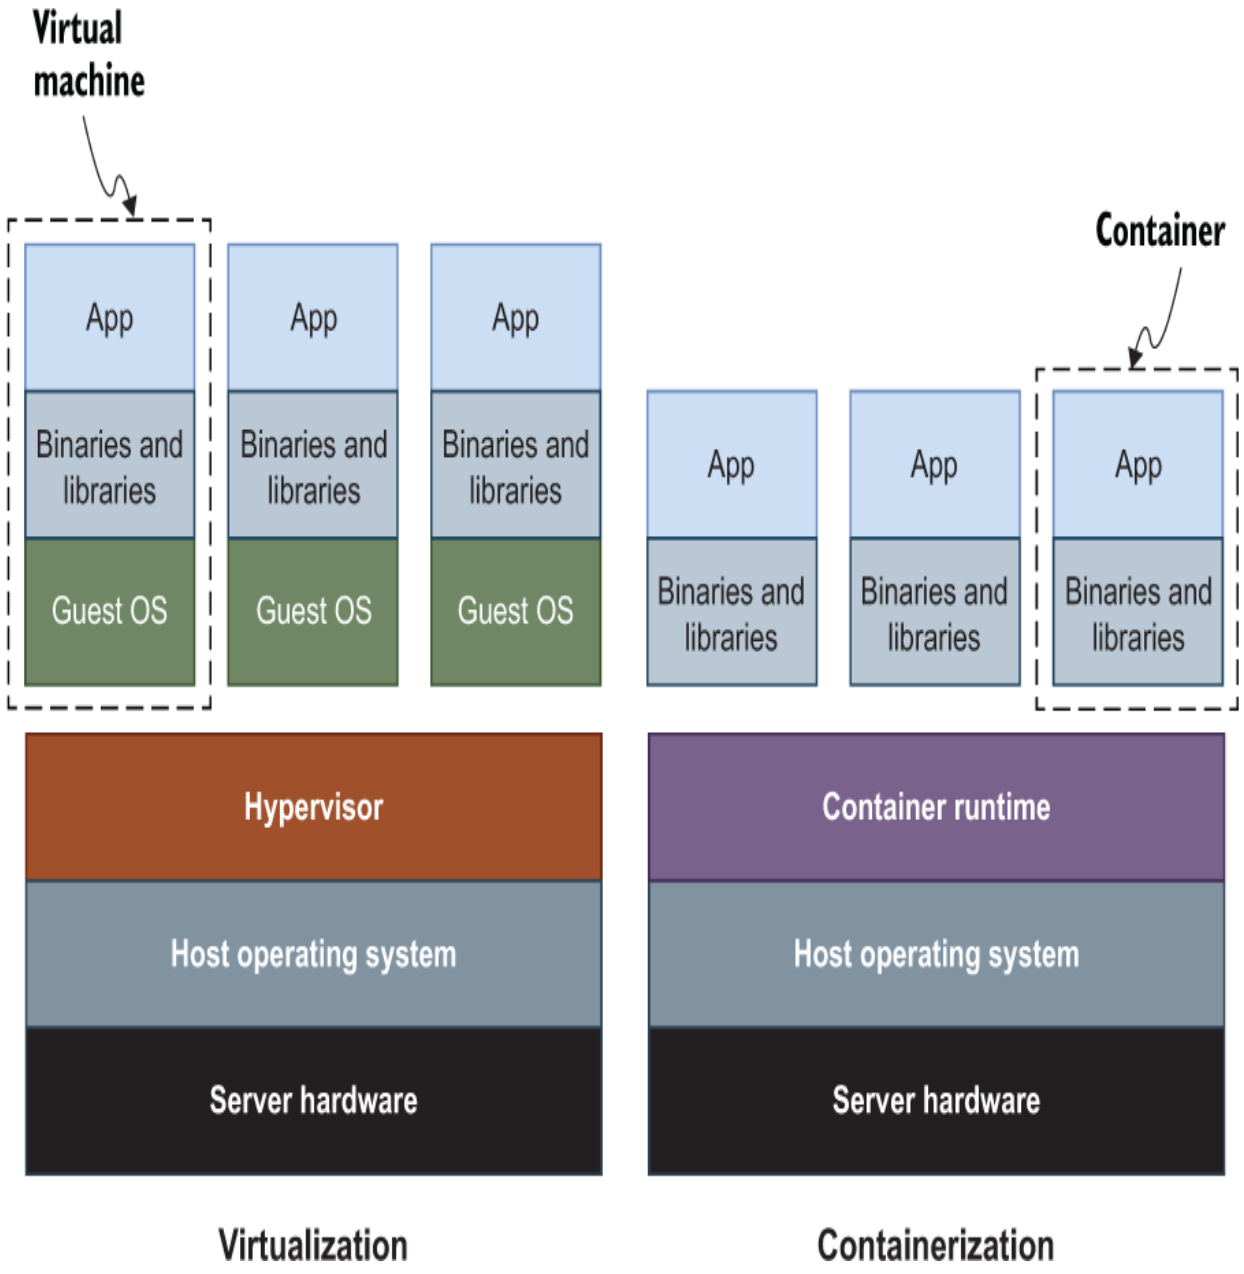

Figure 1.10 Virtualization and container technologies differ in what is shared across isolated contexts. Virtual machines share the hardware only. Containers share the operating system kernel as well. Containers are more lightweight and portable.

Why are containers so popular for cloud native applications? Traditionally, you would have to install and maintain the Java Runtime Environment (JRE)