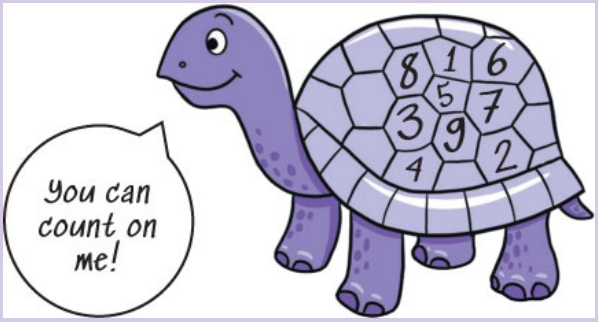
Game science


Kakuro is a little like a magic square in which all the rows, columns, and diagonal rows of numbers add up to the same number. This is an ancient idea in mathematics that features in old legends. In one Chinese legend, a turtle came out of a river with a magic square on its back!