
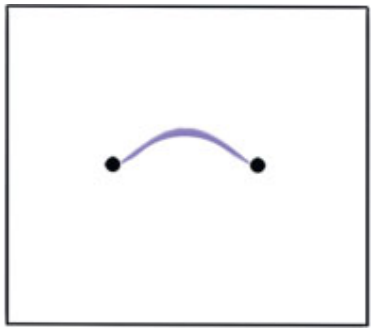
2 The two players use different pens, such as red and blue, and take turns adding lines.

3 When it’s your turn, draw a line connecting two dots.



4 Then draw a new dot somewhere along your line. There are a few rules.

- Your line cannot cross itself or any other line.
- Each dot can have up to three lines joined to it. If a dot has three lines already, you can’t add more.
- You can draw a line that starts at one dot and comes back to the same dot. However, this counts as two lines joining that dot, not one.