
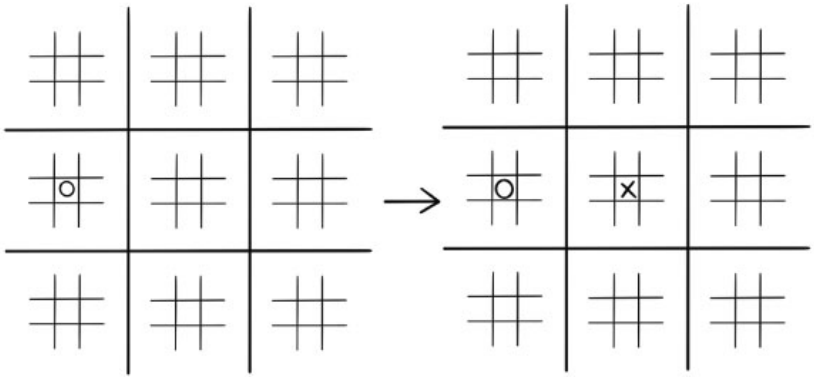
3 Because the first player drew in the middle square of the mini-grid, the other player must play their next move in the middle square of the big grid.

4 This happens each turn. Whichever square in the mini-grid a player draws in, that decides which square in the big grid the other player must use next.



5 When one player wins a mini-grid, they draw their symbol on it. (If it’s a draw, scribble it out).