

Game science

There are thousands of sequences like this, and mathematicians love messing around with them and thinking up new ones. For every sequence, there’s a rule, such as “add 2” or “add one more number than you did last time,” and once you figure out what the rule is, you can use it to predict what comes next.