BACTERIA BOOM

Bacteria are tiny living things with only one cell each. Some are germs and cause illnesses, while others are harmless or even helpful. But what matters here is how they multiply!

Once you've had a turn yourself, get someone else to guess the answer.

1 Bacteria don't lay eggs or have babies. Instead, to make more bacteria, one bacterium splits into two.