Computers use eight-digit binary numbers, or “ASCII” numbers, to stand for the letters of the alphabet—and here they are!

Use binary computer code to send a secret message to a friend …

1 Computers use binary to do calculations. They work by switching a flow of electricity on and off. On stands for 1, and off stands for 0!