```
        });
        const data = await response.json(); #E
        if (!data.success) { #F
          throw new Error(data.message);
        }
        return { #G
          data,
          error: null,
        };
      } catch (error) { #H
        return {
          data: null,
          error: `There was a problem with your submission: ${err
        };
      }
    },
    { data: null, error: null } #I
  );
  return (
    <form action={formAction}> #J
      <input #K
        type="hidden"
        name="access_key"
        value={import.meta.env.VITE_ACCESS_KEY} #L
      />
      <label htmlFor="name">Name:</label>
      <input #M
        type="text"
        name="name"
        required
        pattern="[A-Za-z\s]+" #N
        title="Only letters and spaces allowed."
      />
      <label htmlFor="email">Email:</label>
      <input type="email" name="email" required /> #O
      <input type="submit" value="Submit" disabled={isPending} />
      {state.error && {state.error}} #Q
      {state.data && ( #R Form submitted successfully: ${JSON.stringify(state.
      )}
    </form>
  );
}
```

Before running the example with the Web3Forms API, it is necessary to obtain an access key from https://web3forms.com. This step was completed prior to the interview. To securely manage the access key, update the system