coding. The example used here is `Create a plot showing the popularity of the term GPT Agents in Google search.`

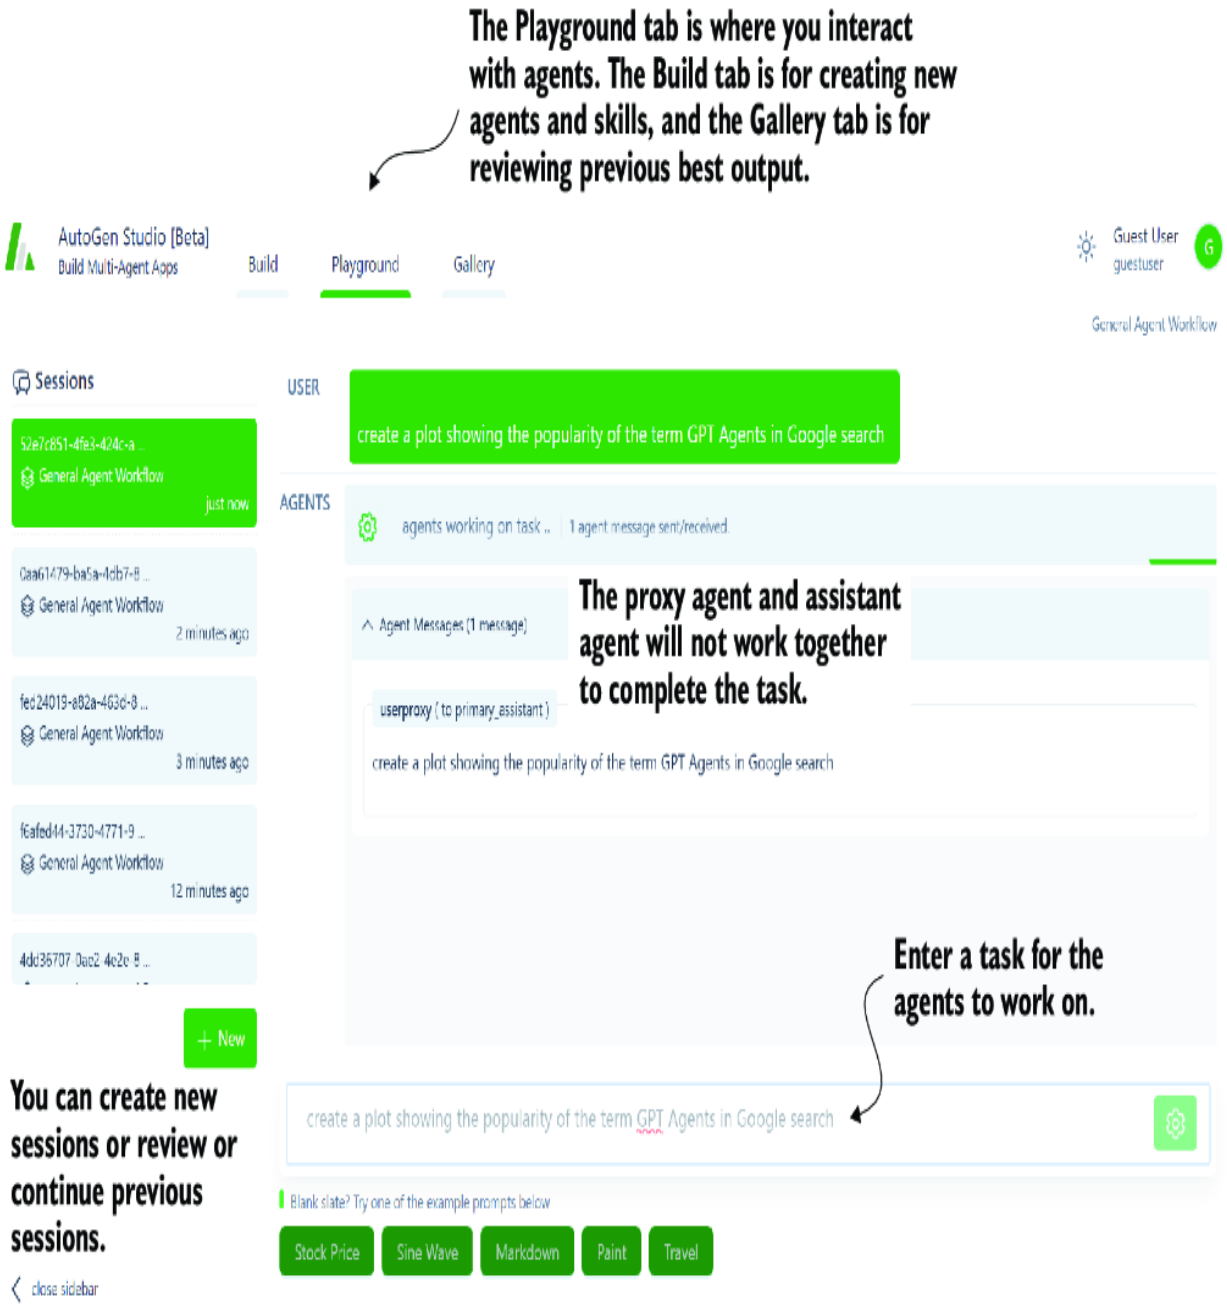

Figure 4.3 Entering a task for the agents to work on in the AutoGen interface

The agent assistant generates code snippets to perform or complete various subtasks as the agents work together through the task in the example. The user proxy agent then attempts to execute those code snippets and assesses the output. In many cases, proving the code runs and produces the required