

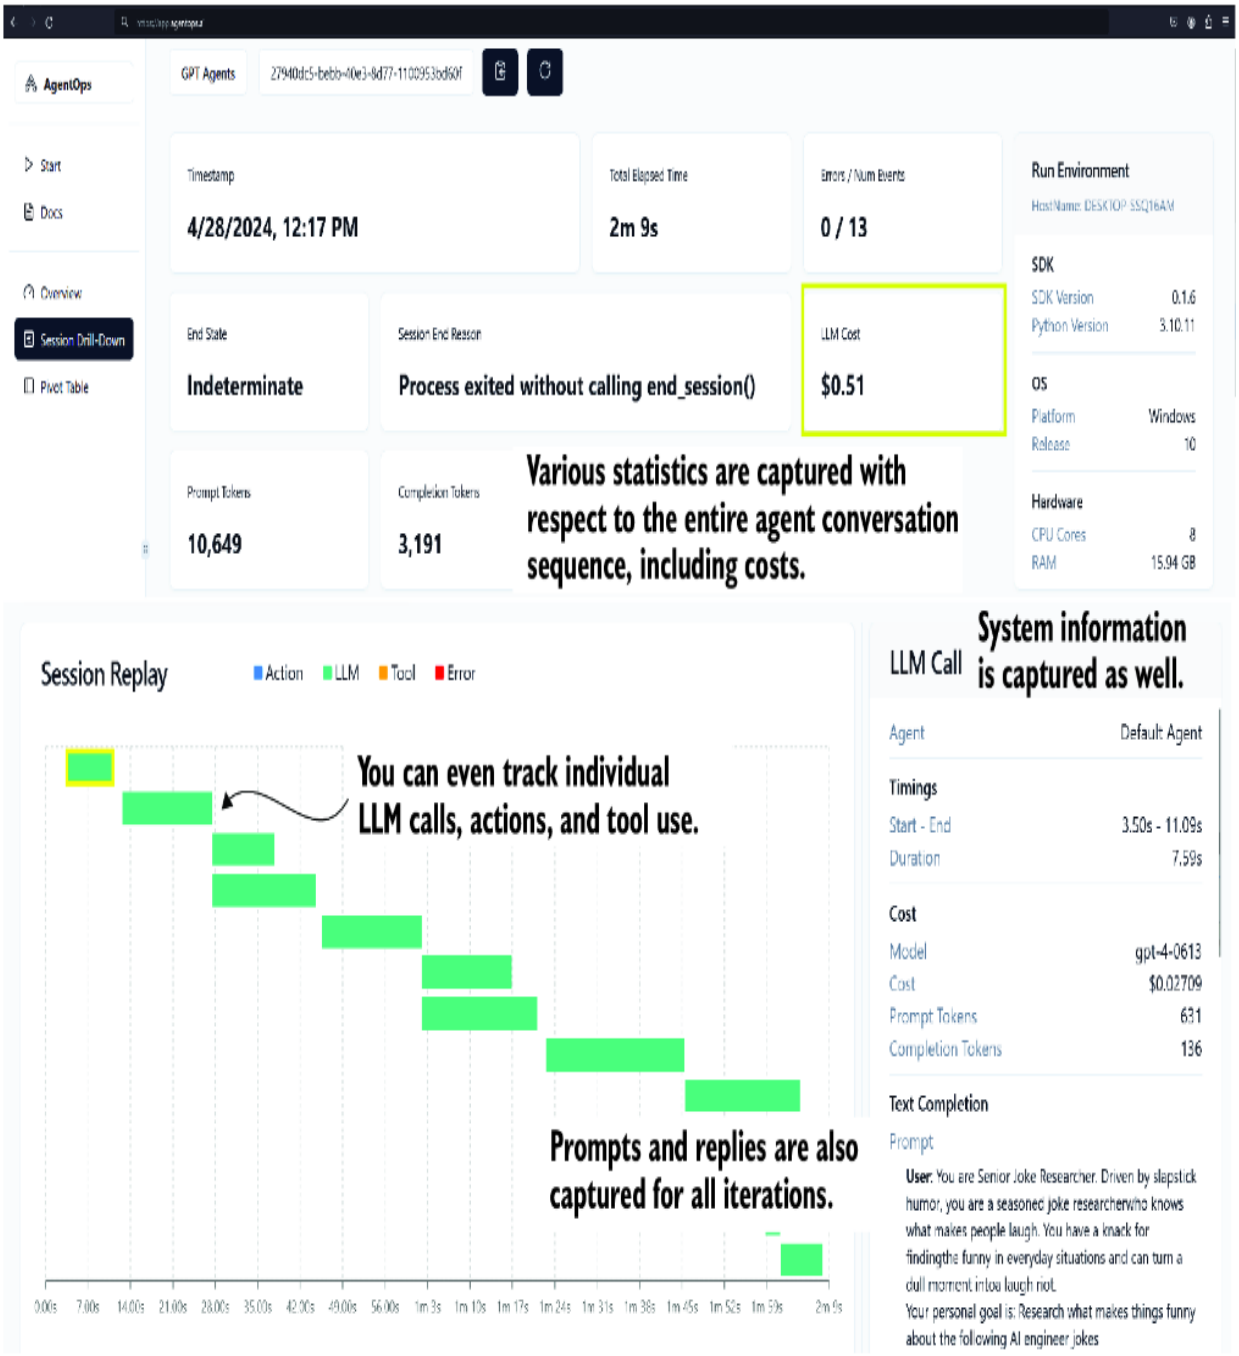

Figure 4.11 The AgentOps dashboard for running the joke crew

The AgentOps platform is an excellent addition to any agent platform. While it's built into CrewAI, it's helpful that the observability could be added to AutoGen or other frameworks. Another attractive thing about AgentOps is that it's dedicated to observing agent interactions and not transforming from a machine learning operations platform. In the future, we'll likely see the spawn of more agent observability patterns.