

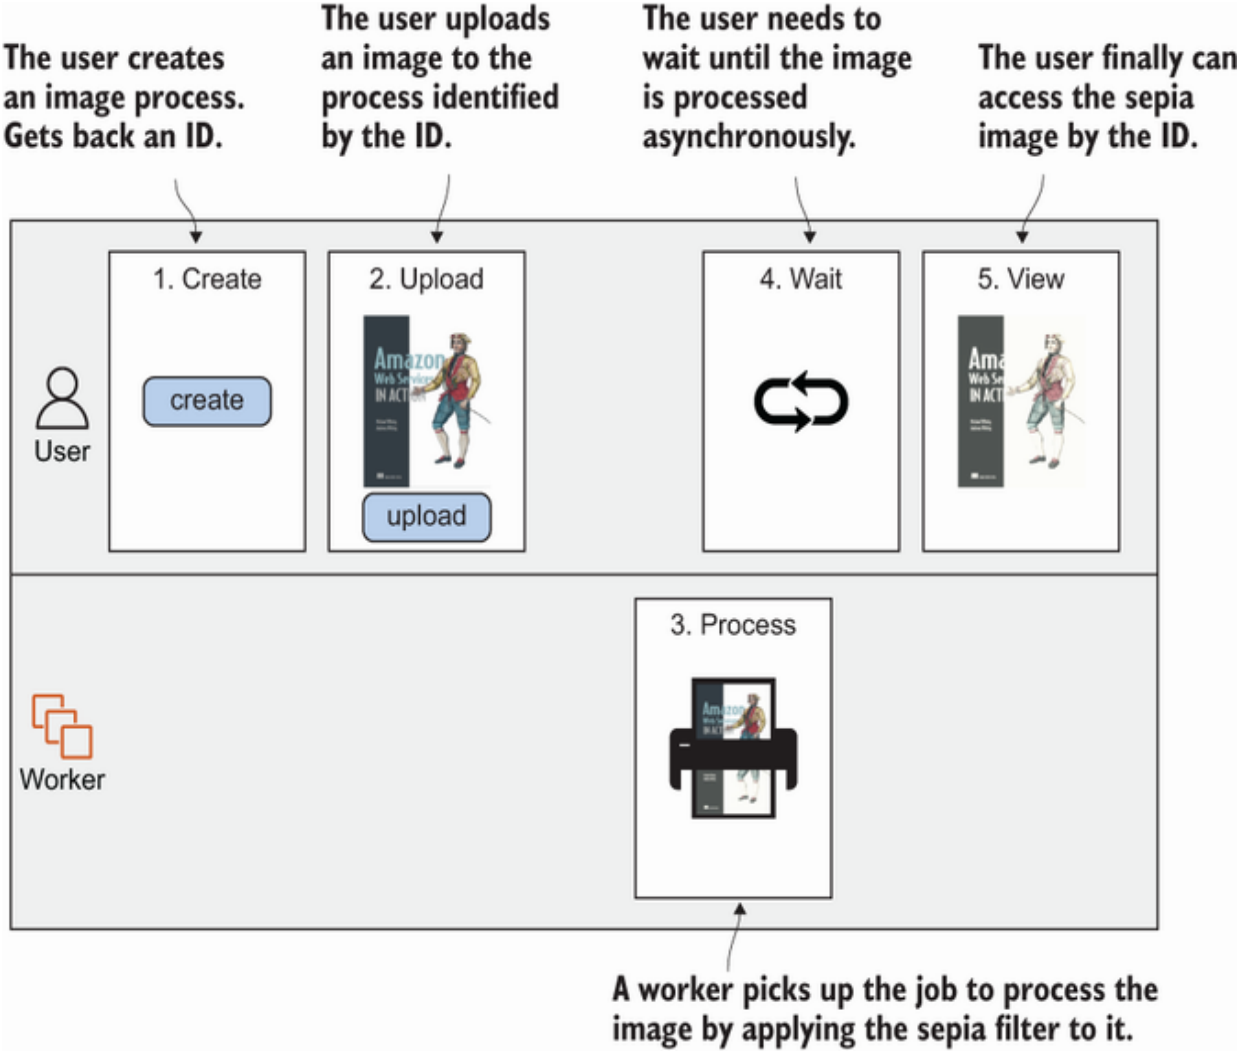

Figure 16.9 The user asynchronously uploads an image to Imagery, where a filter is applied.

Now that you have an asynchronous process, it's time to map that process to AWS services. Keep in mind that many services on AWS are fault tolerant by default, so it makes sense to pick them whenever possible. Figure 16.10 shows one way of doing it.