that the selected city is rendered to the browser, and the second is that the list of options is empty (figure 6.7).

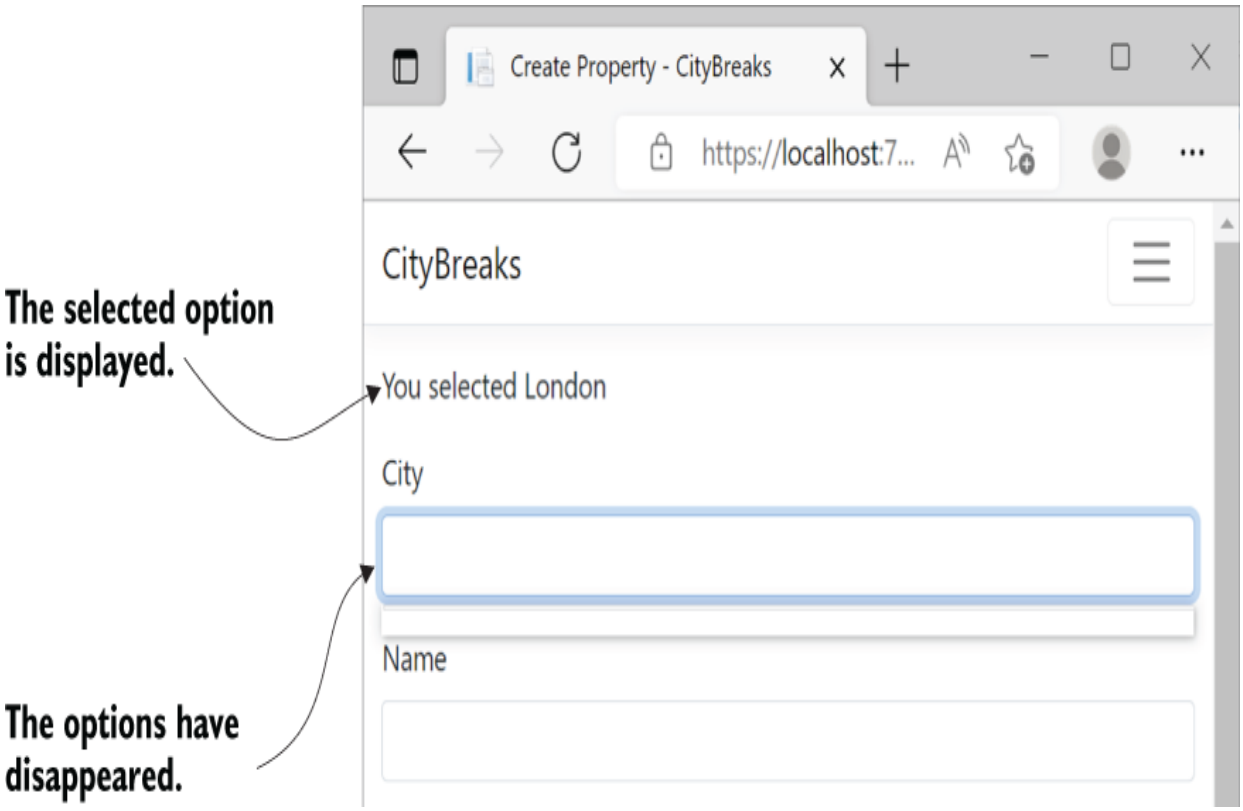

Figure 6.7 The selected option is displayed, but the list of options has disappeared.

So where did the options go? The options are currently generated in the `OnGet` handler. When the form is submitted to the server using the `POST` method, the `OnGet` handler is not executed. Since there is nothing in the `OnPost` handler to restore the city options, no options are generated for a `POST` request. We will look at a simple strategy for correcting this in the next example when you pass more complex objects to the `SelectList`.

SETTING THE VALUE OF OPTIONS