

The quick way to generate a new interface from an existing type in Visual Studio

In the next dialog, change the name of the type, and leave the single method selected. Leave the destination as a new file, and click OK.