

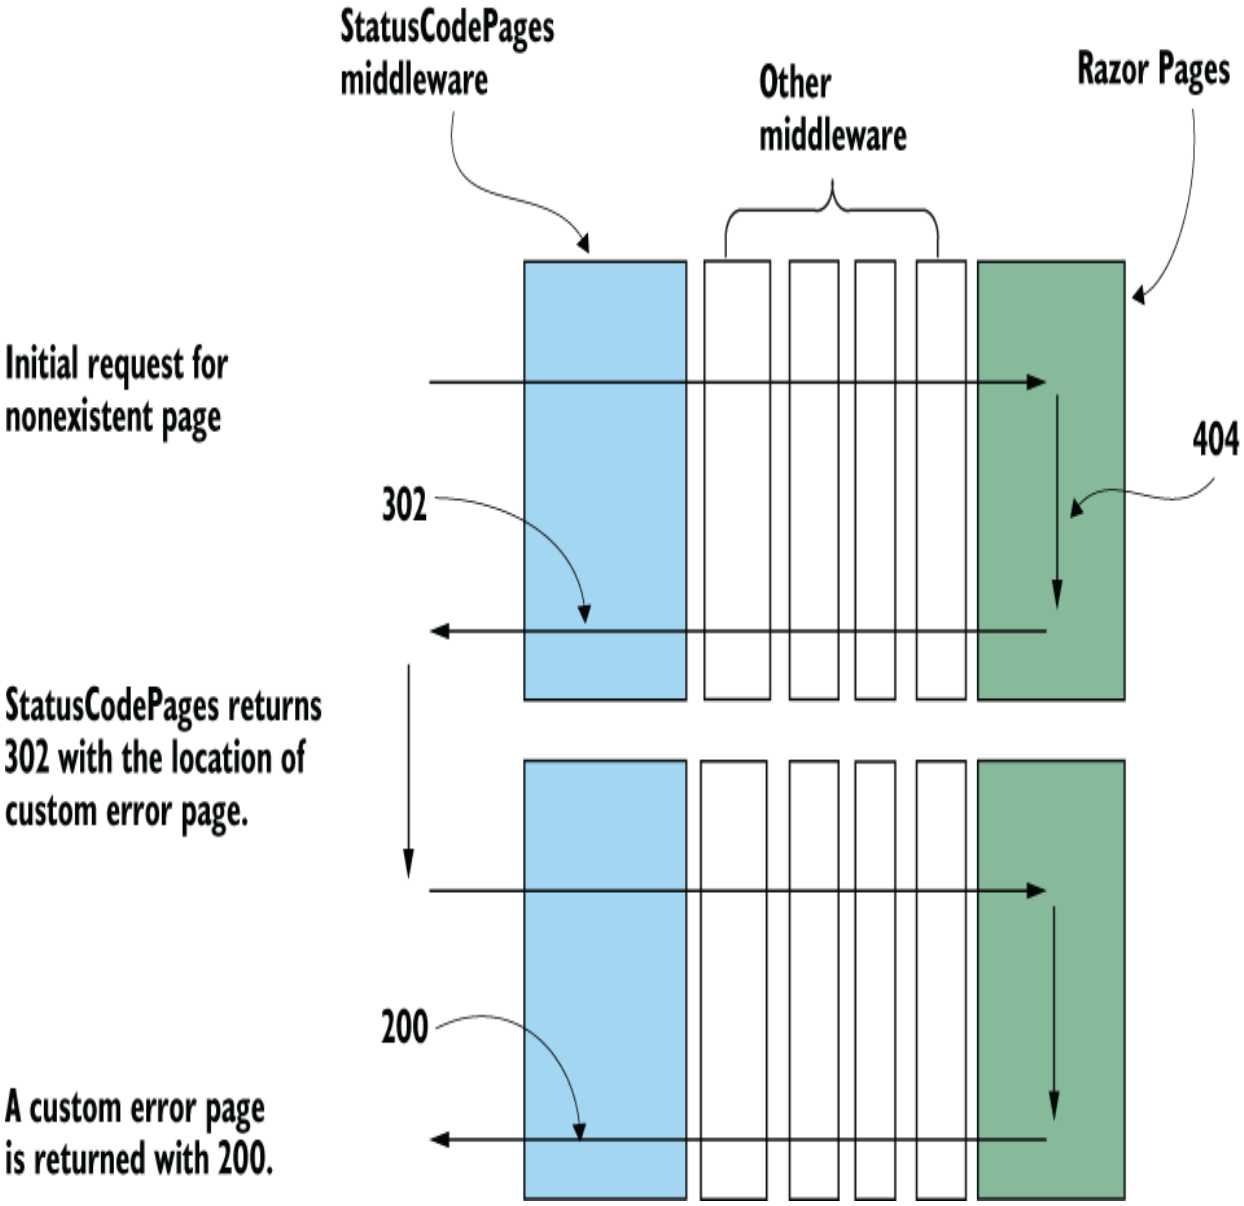

Figure 12.5 The flow of execution when using StatusCodePages middleware with redirects. The initial request for the nonexistent page results in a 404, which is then replaced with a 302 by the middleware. The browser is redirected to the custom error page, which is returned successfully.

You can examine this behavior in your application. First add a new folder to the Pages folder named Errors. Within that, add a new Razor page named