compiled code is good practice, as it makes it easy to tweak them without having to recompile your code.