- An ASP.NET Core application contains a web server, which serves as the entry point for a request.