generates the final response, including additional details around the model binding and validation of the request.