process, demonstrating how a request to a checkout page that requests a user's personal details is bound and validated.

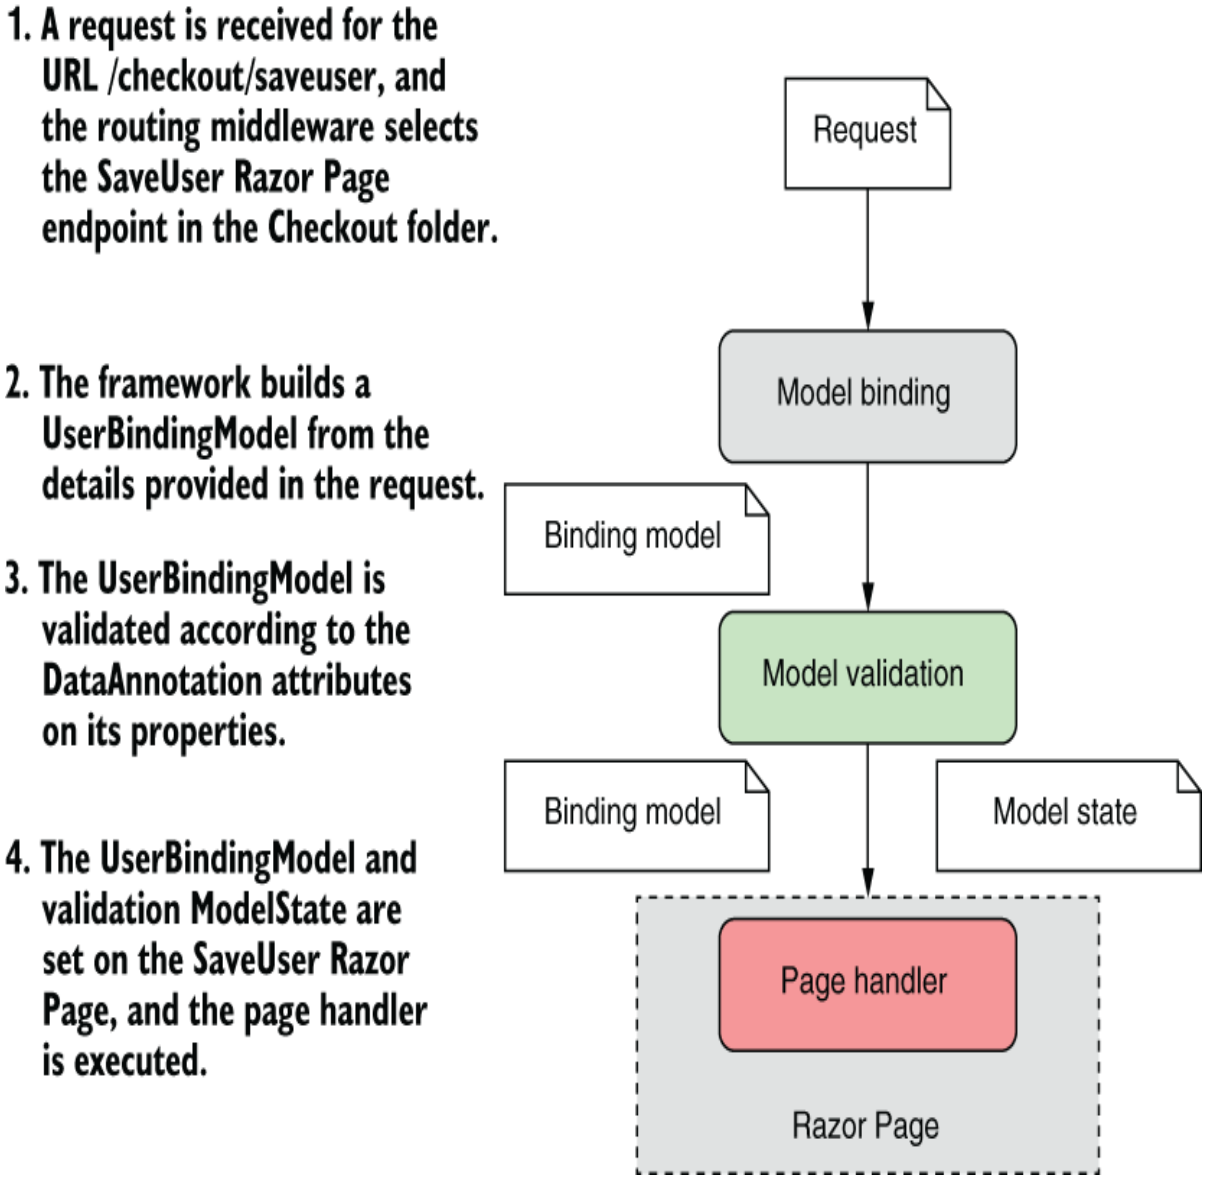

Figure 16.6 Validation occurs after model binding but before the page handler executes. The page handler executes whether or not validation is successful.

As discussed in chapter 7, validation isn't only about protecting against security threats, it's also about ensuring that