The Razor Pages framework uses the same underlying architecture as MVC and Web API controllers, so it’s perhaps not surprising that the filter pipeline is virtually identical. The only difference between the pipelines is that Razor Pages do not use action filters. Instead, they use page filters, as shown in figure 21.3.