

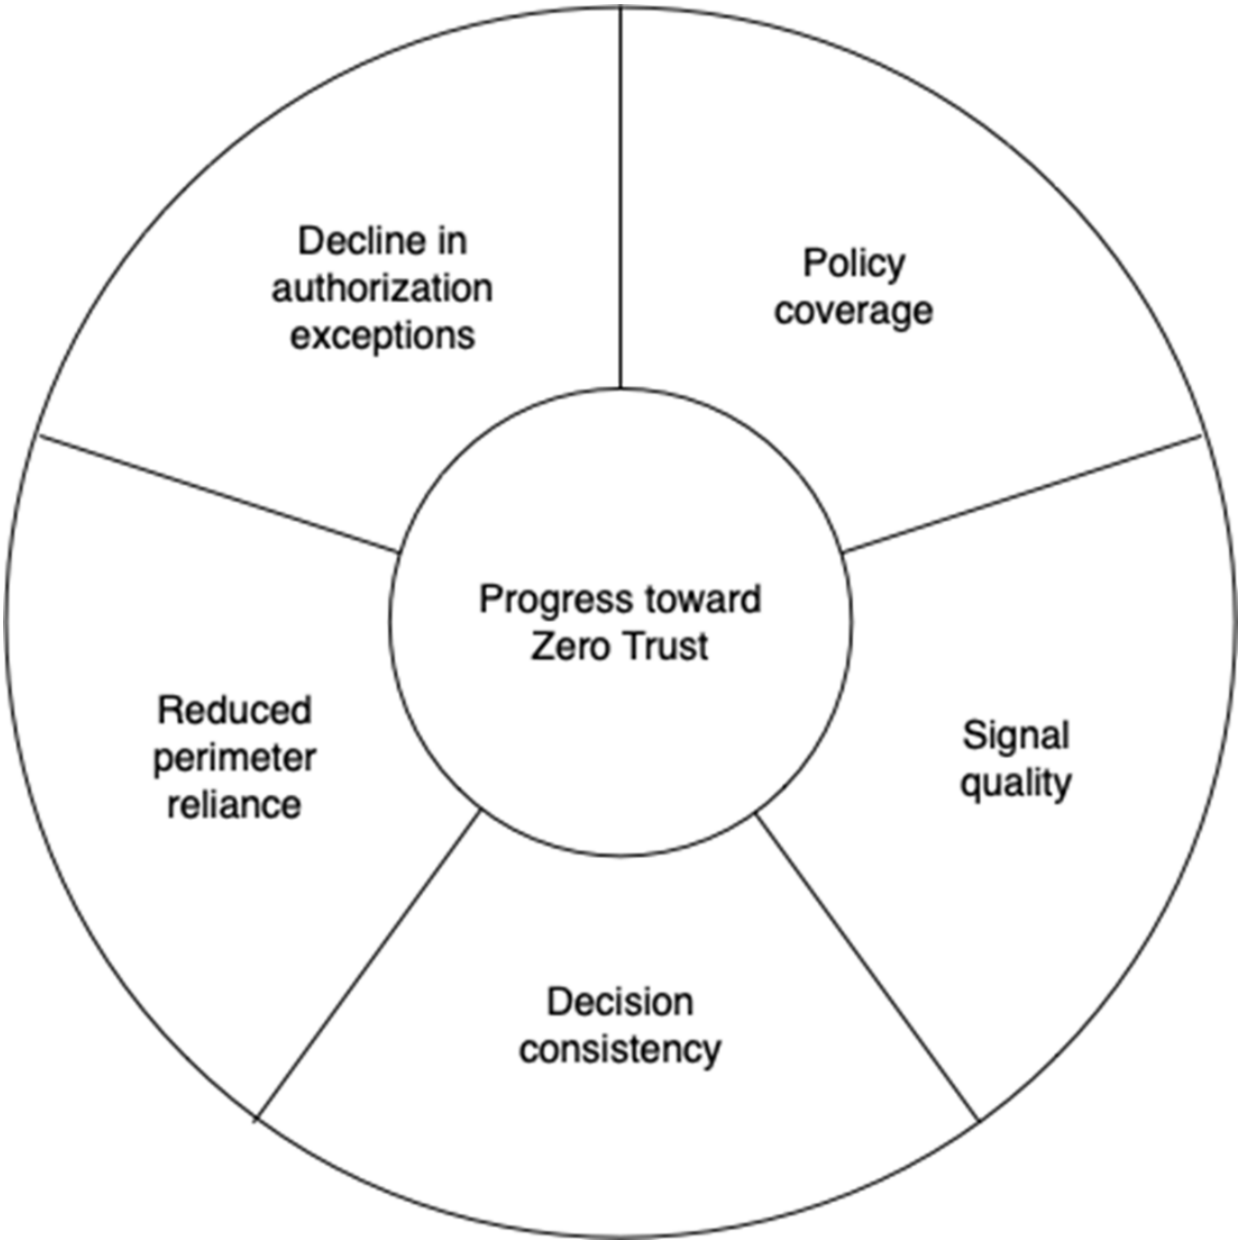

Figure 15.5 Independent dimensions of progress toward Zero Trust. Instead of following a maturity ladder, ACME evaluated its Zero Trust progress across several architectural dimensions: policy coverage, signal quality, decision consistency, reduced reliance on perimeter-based trust, and fewer authorization exceptions.

Each highlights an area where architectural improvements enhance ACME's authorization decisions, making them more reliable, contextual, and aligned with organizational intent.