significant limitations. As shown in Figure 17.1, embedding access intent in prompts can lead to nondeterministic outcomes. Even when the request, context, and prompt stay the same, an AI system may produce different authorization decisions, each backed by a plausible explanation. Without deterministic evaluation based on policy and data, these decisions cannot be trusted for enforcement.