- Confidence comes from technology; trust comes from governance. Strong authentication builds confidence, but governance ensures fairness, compliance, and accountability.
- Privacy, confidentiality, and authenticity are tightly linked to digital identity. Good identity systems and well-crafted authorization policies minimize unnecessary data exposure while ensuring only the appropriate parties gain access.